Some Facts About

GEORGE ROSE SMITH

Candidate for
Associate Justice
Supreme Court of Arkansas

George Rose Smith is a native of Arkansas. He is 37 years old. During the past fifteen years he has been actively engaged in the practice of law in Arkansas—with the exception of almost four years service in the Army Air Forces. He has appeared in the state and federal courts throughout Arkansas. He has handled dozens of cases before the Supreme Court of Arkansas and is intimately familiar with its procedure.

Many lawyers could say as much. But mere experience as an active practitioner is not the only qualification for a Supreme Court justice. A judge must also be a student of the law for the obvious reason that the referee must know the rules of the game. George Rose Smith's unique qualifications in this respect make him the outstanding candidate for associate justice.

POLITICS OR THE LAW?

Every young lawyer who hangs out his shingle has the choice of stressing politics on the one hand or law on the other. Both courses are honorable if honorably pursued.

George Rose Smith decided to devote himself to law. Scholarship has characterized his family for generations. His grandfather, Judge U. M. Rose, and his father, the Reverend Hay Watson Smith, were great scholars. George Rose Smith has lived up to this tradition of scholarship. He graduated from Little Rock High School with first honors in a class of 300. When he graduated from law school at the University of Arkansas he again stood first in his class. This, however, was merely the beginning of his study of law.

AUTHOR OF LAW BOOKS

Despite the demands of an active practice, he found time to write two books on Arkansas law. The first, on the subject of trusteeship, required three years of effort and involved work in the law library for three or four nights a week. This work was published by the American Law Institute, a non-profit organization devoted to the improvement of justice in America. As Mr. Smith knew when he undertook this gigantic task, he was not to receive a penny for this public service. His other volume, devoted to Arkansas mining law, was written at the request of the State Geology Department, as a contribution to the war effort when in 1941 Arkansas bauxite and other mineral resources assumed national importance.

THE QUALIFIED CANDIDATE

These are but a few of the facts about the man who seeks a position on the Supreme Court. Except for his achievement in the field of law, he is a typical citizen. He has never before asked for public office. He is married and is a deacon in his church. In his own profession he has earned the admiration and respect of his fellow lawyers. He asks your active support.

(In New York, Soviet Consul General Jacob M. Lomakin said "absolutely not" when asked if Mrs. Kosenkina could be served with a subpoena in the consulate.)

In addition to testimony from Miss Bentley, the committee has heard about Perlo from Whittaker Chambers, who says he is a former Communist now with Time Magazine. Chambers described Perlo as a leader of a pro-Soviet Communist underground in Washington.

Time after time, Perlo refused to tell the hearing whether he knew people Miss Bentley and Chambers had named as members of the Red underground or a Red spy ring.

On advice of counsel, he refused to answer on grounds the constitution says he need not incriminate or degrade himself with replies. But at one point he said that his refusal to answer "involves no hesitation or shame on my part. The fifth amendment is designed not to protect the guilty but to protect the innocent from charges made in an atmosphere of hysteria such as has surrounded this hearing."

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) hammered at Perlo to say whether he would deny specific charges since his statement made a blanket denial. Nervously twisting his feet under the table, Perlo again stood on his constitutional rights. He said he wanted to leave his hands free, but he would not say whether he had been part of a group of government information sources for Red agents.

Nixon commented that the way Perlo had been reacting offered a pretty good indication of how much credence he can give to all the statements made by this witness.

Nixon noted a sentence in Perlo's statement that "I categorically assert that I have never violated the laws or interests of my country." Nixon said there is a law against giving out secret information. He asked: "Do you mean you have never divulged any secret information to any unauthorized person?"

Perlo declined to reply. Questioning Perlo, Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the committee, asked:

"Mr. Perlo, are you a member of the Communist party?"

Perlo, on advice of counsel, I refused to answer under the first amendment of the constitution and under the fifth amendment on grounds I might tend to incriminate or degrade myself.

Stripling: Have you ever been a member of the Communist party?

Perlo: On advice of counsel I refused to answer under the first amendment to the constitution and under the fifth amendment on grounds I might tend to incriminate or degrade myself.

Stripling: During the period you held various posts in government were you a member of the Communist party?

Perlo rolled off the same answer.

Stripling: Mr. Perlo, will you stand up and take off your glasses? Do you know Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley? She is standing. The 36-year-old witness slowly arose and turned around, knocking his chair from the witness stand.

Back on the first row of spectators, Miss Bentley arose from her place between two plainclothes policemen. They stared at one another a moment.

Then Perlo came out with the same answer.

Stripling asked: "Have you ever seen Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley before in your life?"

Again it was the same. And on it went that way.

At the start Perlo agreed that "wealth he was present under subpoena. He took an oath to tell the truth. He was excused from giving his home address, but he said his business address is 39 Park Avenue, New York, Progressive party headquarters."

He said he was born in New York in 1912 of parents who were natives of Poland. Both his folks came here at an early age and "are honored and respected citizens," he said.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Aug. 9 — (AP) — Light selling was enough to lower stock prices fractions to around 2 points in today's market.

Final quotations were at or near the day's bottom levels.

Activity was at the same slack pace as last week. Total for the day headed for around 700,000 shares.

The end of the special session was taken solidly by security traders, although it had been predicted that the department of Congress would introduce a stabilizing factor into market operations.

Losing fractions to more than a point were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, J. I. Case, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Westinghouse Electric, Du Pont International Paper, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Baltimore Ohio, Standard Oil (N.J.), Texas Co., and Loew's.

U. S. Government bonds tended downward in the over-the-counter market but losses amounted to only a few 32nds of a point.

Closing prices were steady $2.35 to 2.90 a bale lower. At the lowest levels prices were over $3 a bale lower but near the close the market made a feeble attempt to rally.

McMath said Holt's plan for borrowing of surpluses from other state funds with which to build a state welfare pension and other state services.

Holt, who has denied his plan would lessen money available for other purposes, declared McMath's plans for more bond issues, subject to popular vote, would involve exorbitant interest payments.

In criticizing the other's road plan, the candidates were following a familiar pattern. Highway construction — who would finance it and how — has been just about the only live issue of the campaign.

McMath yesterday branded as "too ridiculous for consideration" a statement he said Holt had made that he was backed by former Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin of Hot Springs.

He said that if the fact he carried three Hot Springs wards indicated he was allied with McLaughlin, then I am allied with Jack Holt. I carried his own ward and box in Little Rock.

Besides nominating a governor equivalent in Arkansas to electing him Arkansas Democrats tomorrow will settle two supreme court justices, one congressional seat and the Democratic national committeeman post. They also will name a number of others, mostly incumbents, who are unopposed for the positions they seek.

Incumbent J. Seaborn Holt and Walter L. Pope of Little Rock are contenders for one of the two supreme court jobs; George Rose Smith and J. Fred Jones, both of Little Rock, for the other.

Dr. R. B. Robins, the incumbent, and Dr. Fred G. White of Fort Smith meet in a runoff for national committeeman.

Charles B. Ivy of Bentonville is opposing incumbent Jim Trimble of Berryville for the Third District congressional seat.

For other offices, candidates either are unopposed or the races were settled in the first primary.

To All Hempstead
County Citizens:

Did you know that your County Judge Fred Luck, on July 1, 1948, bought from Martin Cook at McCaskill, Arkansas, a quantity of gravel at 10c per cubic yard? He gave Mr. Cook a warrant for $300.00 with delivery to be made at any time within two years.

Now it is a fact that just as good gravel can be purchased anywhere in that territory for 5c a cubic yard and paid for after the gravel is delivered. I know this is a matter of record at the Hempstead County Courthouse and I thought you citizens would want to know this before deciding on your choice for County Judge.

Yours very truly,

CANDIDATE FOR

Circuit Clerk

To the Citizens of Hempstead County:

I am seeking the office of Circuit Clerk because I need a job and because I am qualified to fill the duties of that office. In December I will be thirty years old and I realize that is not an early age to be asking for a start.

When I got out of the Army I, like so many other GI's, turned down good paying jobs in order to return to school to finish my training which the war had interrupted. On June 5th of this year I graduated from the Law School at Fayetteville. I'm back home now, flat broke and unable to set up a practice. I am humbly asking the people of this county to give me a chance — a chance to get on my feet.

For three years I have studied the fundamental principles upon which the office of Circuit Clerk is based. I understand why it must be carried on by capable and efficient personnel. I believe that my training has qualified me to do this.

This office is in line with my life's work and this plus the fact that I need a job are the ONLY reasons that I am running for this office.

If you honor me with this office I have the confidence to know that I can go on from there WITHOUT EVER AGAIN asking for another county office. I sincerely hope you will give me a chance to prove it. Thank you.

"A Genuine Democrat"

In these days of political band-wagons and vacillating politicians, it is most encouraging to encounter now and then a man in political life who appreciates the fundamental principles upon which the Democratic party was founded and is willing to stand up and be counted for those principles in opposition to those who would make the party a field for the planting of socialist seed.

Such a man is Dr. R. B. Robins of Camden, the Democratic National Committeeman from Arkansas.

Dr. Robins has championed the Democratic Party as the truly great party of the people but when its leadership begins straying from the principles he considers fundamental, he has been quick to voice his resentment.

He has never been a "yes man" for the national Democratic leadership but has consistently supported the cause of free enterprise and freedom of the individual.

The Democratic Party could do with a lot more people like Dr. Robins.

during the Nazi occupation. Russia gave him the nucleus of a guerrilla army in her Communist partisans. Russia built up a situation in which the Americans and British, at their shame, dropped the faithful Mikhailovich and King Peter, and strung along with Russia's stooge Tito.

By choice as well as by circumstance, Tito is committed to totalitarianism as against democracy, to Marxism as against capitalism, to Moscow as against the west.

So any optimism is false, even before we stop to remember, realistically, what Stalin would not permit Tito or his country to break away even if Tito wanted to. The Soviet stake in the Balkans is too great. The loss of face would be too humiliating.

It is entirely probable that the Yugoslavs, as a people, are non-Communist. The farmers love their land, and they would feel quite different about collectivization than did the landless Russian serfs.

But the Yugoslavs are Slavs. Probably as a whole they are pro-Russian. They will back Tito in a snide defiance of Moscow that rests on nationalism, because they are a beligerently patriotic people, and they have seen disturbing signs that Moscow is thinking of merging satellites into the USSR.

Likewise, there are signs that the Czechs, also an independent, patriotic people, are upset by the threat to their rural capitalism and the threats to their national identity.

There is nothing to suggest that either will break away, or try to do so. In any showdown, it is a safe bet that both will be found on Moscow's side. The chances are small that either will kick enough even to divert Stalin from the chess game he is playing with World War III.

Trapgood. He was smoothly groomed. There was only the faintest hint of his just-past-40 waistline.

"You were in it a long time, over four years," Trapgood said. "Didn't really seem that long."

Sterling said. "Business still bringing you out to Clifton?"

Trapgood laughed. "I'm one of your neighbors, Sterling. Two things happened to me while you were away. I started working for the district attorney's office and went into private practice at the end of '43. Six months after that I married an old friend of yours."

"Janet? That's fine," Sterling was a trifle late in extending his hand. "That's really fine." Sterling added that absently. "Then you're living in . . . out here in Clifton."

"In Janet's house, yes. We've got to have you over some evening."

Janet Trapgood . . . Sterling mumbled that name over to himself as he let himself into the house. That didn't seem to fit . . . seemed incongruous . . . it was all topsy-turvy. Janet and Trapgood . . . time had played tricks of him, was laughing at him.

May was almost half spent when Isabel Wilson, timid, frightened, was ushered into the office of Lieut. Christopher Talent at Police Headquarters.

"I am Marcus Sterling's secretary," Miss Wilson said. "Mr. Sterling asked me to see you personally, and to ask you please to receive his message personally, and not . . . well, not as . . . Not as a police officer? Is that it, Miss Wilson?"

"Yes, thank you, Lieutenant. Mr. Sterling wonders if you would come to see him. He's very anxious about it."

"Mr. Sterling doesn't want to come to see me here?"

"He couldn't, Lieutenant," Miss Wilson's voice quivered and she dabbed quickly at her eyes. "He is dying. He's sinking rapidly. I believe he's trying to keep alive until you see him. Today he has had only brief rational periods. He seems to be fighting against a delirium."

"Is he at his home?"

"I'm sorry. I should have told you. He's in a hospital. You will go to see him, won't you, Lieutenant, Talent?"

When Miss Wilson had gone, Talent went to a cabinet drawer and took out a fiber filing envelope. He went hurriedly through its contents. He was refreshing his memory. Nothing had been added to his personal file of the unsolved Sterling case since 1940. Six years! Six years almost to the day. Talent reflected, glancing from a memorandum to his desk calendar. Sterling, dying was asking for him . . . strange that he had never shaken off the belief that Sterling could tell him something.

The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Scabies, or the seven-year itch, is not a respecter of persons, and may strike anyone without warning. The disease is caused by an insect which burrows into the skin and causes irritation and intense itching.

The tendency for the itching to be worse during the night is one of the most constant symptoms of scabies, at least during its early stages. This helps in the diagnosis, but examination of the entire body is usually necessary to make certain.

Sulfur Used
Several good methods of treatment are available. For a great many years, good results have been obtained by the use of various sulfur compounds. Sulfur ointment, sulfur pastes and other combinations of sulfur, together with soap and water, may be enough to cure.

A lotion containing rotenone has also been found useful. Chemical agents, containing benzobenzothiazole, DDT and other substances, bring about a high percentage of cures.

Some of these substances, of course, are irritating to the skin if continued too long, and it is wise to use a thorough series of treatments under specialized direction, rather than to continue with any one substance for too long a time.

Great care must be used to avoid infection. Clothing and bedding should be changed and laundered to rid them of the insects. Blankets, suits and similar materials need to be dry cleaned.

Because of the excellent treatment now available, there is little reason to remain troubled with scabies or the seven-year itch, if diagnosis has been made and treatment is begun early enough.

QUESTION: What can be done for chronic heartburn?

ANSWER: Heartburn usually comes from a small regurgitation of acid stomach contents into the passageway leading from the mouth to the stomach. It may or may not be a sign of some disease in the lower end of this passageway or in the stomach itself. A thorough examination with X-rays is indicated.

Wise Mother-In-Law

Dear Miss Dix: There would be no mother-in-law problem if no mother-in-law realized that no grown man NEEDS a mother, and that the whole relationship of mother and son changes when the child becomes an adult. There is affection between them, but no longer the appealing dependency so dear to the mother's heart. She sees that in herself and her contemporaries, but she is loath to admit it when it happens to her.

Junior is still her little boy, but he is his wife's "big moment," so there should be no conflict there, and there would not be if Mother would let the grownup Junior go and keep her memories of her baby boy locked in her heart.

My three sons were occasionally come to me for advice. I give it when asked, but never voluntarily. As a result their wives are friendly and cordial, but none of us pretend there is a mother-daughter relationship between us. My theory is that having had a long and delightful reign as Mother I must now abdicate and be a friend.

I am first with my husband, so it is only fair that my sons' wives should be first with theirs. "To have, to hold, and in time let go," as a poet has said, is the right way, the fair way.

CORNELIA

Answer: I wish that every mother of a baby boy would paste this article on her mirror where she would see it every time she put on her makeup, for it is the finest exposition I have ever seen of the relationship that should exist between a mother and her son.

End Feuds
And it would settle, once and for all, the mother-daughter-in-law feud that has wrecked so many marriages and broken up so many homes and caused so many barrels of tears to be shed. For there is neither decency nor reason in the perpetual fighting between a man's mother and his wife. And it could be so easily avoided if only mothers could be brought to realize that when their sons grow up and marry they enter upon a new life, instead of being tied to Mama's apron strings.

The sister of this wise letter signs it "Cornelia." In the beautiful old story Cornelia said that her children were her jewels. The children of this Cornelia may well say that their mother is their Kohinoor.

Dear Miss Dix: I am going with a fellow who claims that he is very much in love with me, but he is always borrowing money from me and never returns it. He has a good job and makes good.

UNDECIDED
Answer: I would certainly advise you to let the air, for evidently he has no serious intentions. Men who love don't wander around taking their temperatures and trying to decide whether what they feel for a girl is an undying devotion, or just indigestion.

The girl who spends weary years waiting for a lady to decide whether she loves her or not generally ends up an old maid.

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

PUZZLED GIRL
Answer: You don't need to be puzzled about what kind of a chap your boy (friend) is. He is a deadbeat of the most repulsive type, and why you have anything to do with him, I can't imagine.

Have enough gumption to realize that when a man loves a woman he tries to protect her. He doesn't hold her up and make her pay for his good times. He is the one who gives, not the one who takes. Whenever a man borrows money from a woman without making any effort to repay it, it is a safe bet that he is spending it on some other woman.

Don't marry any man who is such a gyp, unless you are willing to spend your life working to support him.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend tells me that he doesn't want to settle down; that he wants to

Crump to Support Democratic Nominees

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 9 —(UP)—Ed Crump, Shelby County political leader whose 20-year reign over Tennessee politics came to an abrupt end in last week's primary election, said he would support the Democratic nominees for Senator and governor even though they beat his own hand-picked candidates.

Crump denied reports by Radio Commentator Drew Pearson that he would back Republican candidates in the November balloting. "I'm sure we have no other ideas but to go right along with the (Democratic) nominees," Crump said.

U. S. Rep. Estes Kefauver and Chancellor Gordon Browning, bitter political foes of Crump, won the Democratic nominations for Senator and governor over Crump's candidates, Judge Hohn Mitchell and incumbent Gov. Jim McCord.

They will face former Republican National Committee Chairman J. Carroll Reece, who won the GOP senatorial nomination, and Hillbilly Singer Roy Acuff, who was nominated for governor in the Republican primary.

Sweden Trying to Persuade Norway to Join in Strict Neutrality in Event of War

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Sweden's declaration that she intends to maintain "armed neutrality" in a third world war, and her efforts to persuade Norway to join her in this stand, have been causing the Western powers much concern—a concern which has been conveyed repeatedly, though informally, to Stockholm.

Norway has been anxious to keep her doors open to military cooperation with the Western powers. However, discussions regarding a Scandinavian defense alliance, initiated by Sweden, have been going on for several months.

Swedish sources say the British believe the Western powers are so strong in the Mediterranean that the Russian couldn't make headway there. Thus the only feasible place for the Muscovites to open a front would be Scandinavia. Hence the desire to see those northern nations in the Democratic bloc.

Of course the crux of the matter is that there isn't a ghost of a chance for Scandinavia to remain neutral in a war between the Communist bloc and the Democracies. As a matter of fact informed quarters in Stockholm say that British Foreign Secretary Bevin told the Swedish ambassador in London that the chances of maintaining neutrality were slight.

That is true not only of Scandinavia but of every other country in Europe—true of most nations in the world, so far as that goes. As a matter of fact the "cold" war between the Bolsheviks and the Democracies is a third world war. In some places, like China and Greece, it actually is a shooting war.

What a lot of folk in the Democracies don't yet realize is that they are up against an entirely new kind of warfare. It is ideological and therefore deceptive—but it is far more dangerous than the outright military struggles for power in the past.

The old wars were destructive of life, property and resources. But this new world revolution for the spread of Communism aims at destroying the freedom of nations and depriving their citizens of man's bill of rights.

That's a type of aggression that neither Sweden nor any other nation can hope to escape the neutrality. It's an aggression that destroys by treachery and by the creation of fifth columns among glibble citizens who are flattered to play the roles of "liberals" and "intellectuals," and are bamboozled by Moscow-directed Reds into thinking they are doing something grand for mankind.

Sweden has plenty of proof among European states that Communism, if allowed to run in a country, sooner or later destroys that government and install a totalitarian police regime. Or she might take a look at what is going on over here in America, whose way of life has been labeled by Communism as enemy No. 1. There is no such thing as "neutrality" in facing the Red peril. You can't escape by trying to remain on one side. The only way for the Democracies to defeat the Bolshevik aggression is to stand together.

Baptist Preachers Resent Uncle Mac's Efforts to Lead Them Into Hot Spring's Gambling Den!

Are the Ninety and Nine in the fold?

Can Uncle Mac Deliver The Votes He's Promised? We say NO!

TO THE VOTERS of ARKANSAS:

The undersigned ordained ministers wish to express their appraisal of Mr. James MacKrell, sometimes known as "Uncle Mac."

After careful deliberation, we wish to state that in our opinion, Mr. MacKrell has betrayed many of those good Christians who formerly supported him, both politically and financially.

NOTHING Mr. MacKrell can ever say will induce us to believe he has not betrayed his followers. This is not the first such betrayal. He has done so in the past.

For Example: He promised to buy 100 tents for the preachers of Arkansas to use in evangelistic work. He appealed to the people of Arkansas over the radio for funds — and received funds for this purpose, but to our knowledge, not one minister in Arkansas has received a tent from Mr. MacKrell.

WHAT DID HE DO WITH THE MONEY?

In 1945 when he appealed to the people for money to build cabins at Aitberg for you to go there and spend the summer, he promised to put your names on the cabins. To our knowledge, not one such cabin has been finished, yet he received money for that purpose.

DID HE TELL A FALSEHOOD AGAIN, IF SO, — AGAIN WE ASK, WHAT DID HE DO WITH THE MONEY?

Only a few days ago he promised to contest the election in his race for Governor. He announced this over the radio and in the newspapers for one and all to see. You sent him money for that purpose — by mail — and he immediately turned his back on you. He joined Jack Holt and Leo McLaughlin and to this very day he is not man enough to return your money to you — BY MAIL — just like he received it.

DID MR. MACKRELL TELL THIS FINAL, TOTAL FALSEHOOD? AND AGAIN WE ASK, WHAT DID HE DO WITH THE MONEY?

Despite his pious protest that he received nothing from either Jack Holt or Leo McLaughlin, we ask this final question:

Why did he join the Hot Springs gang?

"Uncle Mac" says he never received a cent from the Hot Springs gamblers. Then why did he join the gamblers, racketeers and election stealers in Hot Springs if he got no money out of it? He says he has been a friend of them for years. If he got no money out of it he must be acting from principle — from what he honestly believes and if so, we have the spectacle of an ordained Baptist minister believing in gambling, racketeering, and election stealing and he showed it by joining the Hot Springs gang.

Any of us resent the attempt to draw his former brethren into any such connection. It is bad enough for a Baptist preacher to go into that sort of gang himself, without trying to lead the honest, sincere country people into the gambling gang along with him.

Take Heavy Toll
Seventeen million bushels of wheat annually is the toll paid in America because England hired 18,000 Hessian soldiers to help fight the American Revolution. By JACK BELL
Washington, Aug. 9 —(P)—Some of his best friends in Congress urged President Truman today to sign the Republican housing and credit control bills.

They were passed by the special session which quit Saturday night after 13 days of political in-fighting on Capitol Hill.

Senator Hatch of New Mexico, chairman of the Democratic campaign speakers committee, told a reporter:

"Inadequate as these measures are, I still think they represent some advance over what we have now and I hope the president signs them."

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the assistant Democratic leader, said he feels the president will be "compelled" to sign them.

"But I am sure that when he does, he will be able to tell the country just how inadequate and how meager they are," Lucas declared.

There were indications that when he gets around to acting on the measures, Mr. Truman will do just that. His party members expect the president to use blistering language in describing the Republicans' refusal to give him the price-wage and rationing controls he said are necessary to bring down the high cost of living.

But the Republicans had a ready answer to anything Mr. Truman might say about inflation—a contention that he has hampered congressional investigations into Communist activities in the government.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), who headed one of the inquiry committees, put it on the line with a charge in the Senate's closing session that the president had been up "an iron curtain between Congress and the public business."

Yesterday, however, a Dixie Democrat who broke with the president earlier this year over his civil rights program took to the air in Mr. Truman's defense.

Senator Hoyer (D-NC) told a radio audience Ferguson had delivered himself of a "political tirade" and that actually every president starting with Washington has followed a policy of withholding data on federal employees.

Nevertheless, the Republicans give every evidence that they will bear down hard on the story told to both Senate and House committees that Communists were able to get secret wartime information from government officials and pass it along to Moscow.

Following the president's lead, the Democrats seem likely to contend that this is only a "red herring" and to talk at the top of their voices about the high cost of living.

Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, the Democratic national chairman, said in a week-end statement that the "only job the American public can get from further increases in prices already shockingly high is to elect President Truman and a Democratic Congress in November."

British Isles Lashed by Bad Storm

London, Aug. 9 —(UP)—One of the worst summer storms of recent history continued to batter the English Channel coast today after rolling up a weekend disaster toll of eight drowned, five yachts wrecked and heavy coastal damage to farms, sea walls and telephone lines.

The major disaster of the storm took place off the French coast in fishing village of Perros Guirec in Normandy, where a fishing boat sank while on a pleasure cruise with 13 tourists.

Five of those aboard were saved by rescuers from Perros Guirec. Five bodies were recovered and three still are missing. Among the bodies recovered was that of a 16-year-old English girl.

Yachts were driven ashore or foundered all along the English coast fronting on the channel. A lifeboat rescued four persons from the wrecked yacht Pavlovna off the coast of Devon.

Other yachts wrecked were the Kestrel, with three men aboard, and the Gull, with six persons, including a woman and two children all were saved.

A fifth yacht was believed to have sunk at sea. A lifeboat answered a distress call and found no trace of the vessel, but an unconscious man was picked up.

The 7,000-ton American merchant ship William Hawkins reported she was drifting helplessly with a broken steering gear off Beachy Head on the South Coast. A New-haven lifeboat and tug answered the call but the Hawkins managed to get under way again without aid.

The Panamanian Steamer Correll reported she had been heavily damaged and part of her cargo washed away of Ushant. The tug Jostous was sent to her assistance from Falmouth.

Two Swedish naval training ships also sent out distress signals but were able to master the weather by the time a lifeboat reached them.

Flood tides whipped by a 70-mile-an-hour wind breached the sea wall at Brooklands Estate, near Chelmsford, swamping 450 summer bungalows to the depth of four feet. More than 1,000 vacationers were rescued in rowboats and amphibious ducks.

Seas 60 feet high crashed over the coastal road at Sandgate. More than 1,000 telephone lines were ripped down in the Hastings area. Farmers reported tons of unripened fruit were stripped from trees.

While America's population is steadily climbing, the number of dairy cows on farms producing milk head on January 1, 1945, to 25,165, is going down—from 27,770,000 on January 1, 1945.

County Judge Fred A. Luck
Hope, Arkansas

Dear Judge:

I have just completed an analysis of the report on Hempstead county for the year 1947. I want to compliment you on the financial condition of the county at the close of the 1947 fiscal year. By comparing the 1947 fiscal year with the 1946 fiscal year, you will find that the surplus account gained in the amount of $14,647.07. The gain in the county General Fund amounted to $11,574.91 and the County Road Funds $3,072.16. The funds under your supervision had a net cash balance amounting to $29,115.24 as of December 31, 1947.

I know that you are glad to have all of the accounts operating on a cash basis. As you know, the 7.7 Highway Turnback Account has been encumbered in your county for a number of years. I think that you have done an excellent job in retiring all of the county indebtedness and getting all of the accounts under your jurisdiction on a cash basis.

Very truly yours,

Aubrey McCasland, Supervisor
County Audit Division.

FALSE RUMORS

In the closing hours of the campaign a false rumor has been circulated in the North part of the county concerning the allowance of a certain claim for $300.00 which Hempstead County paid to M. E. Cook, near McCaskill.

Here Are the True Facts:

The county is planning to improve three and a half miles of road from Friendship Church into the Little Missouri River Bottoms. There is a gravel pit located centrally, in fact, the road runs right through the gravel pit. In order to save money for the County, we purchased 3,000 yards of gravel from this pit, to put on this road. The County has two years to move the gravel. Hempstead County has received a good buy and it was sound business to purchase this gravel before starting the project.

NOW IF PROOF CONCERNING THE ALLOWANCE OF THIS CLAIM IS NEEDED, HERE IT IS!

The claim and the contract for purchase of this gravel was filed and allowed by the County Court July 5th, 1948. It is a public record and any interested party has a right to examine it. It has been examined carefully by two competent attorneys and declared to be legal in every respect.

Harrison in Playoff With Two Others

Chicago, Aug. 9 — (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum, golf's wary "thin man," has a chance today to boost his earnings for a week to an unprecedented $22,500.

He and two other pro money hounds, Sam Snead and Dutch Harrison, entered in the 18-hole playoff at Tam O'Shanter for a winner-take-all purse of $10,000.

Financially, this is the greatest showdown golf has seen.

Mangrum shot a spectacular nine-under-par 63 in the playoff round yesterday to make the grade. Billed by Promoter George S. May as the "world championship," the 28-hole tournament for 12 selected pros broken open at the seams when Mangrum made up a six stroke deficit in the final round to stay in the anti climax.

On Saturday, the dapper Mangrum shot a standard 72 while Snead captured first round with a 66. Harrison trailed with a 68, and Snead followed with a 67.

For his 135 tally yesterday, missing a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole which would have given him the $10,000 jackpot, Harrison, 38-year old veteran from Little Rock, Ark., posted 2-84.

These divisions were set yesterday.

Bill Campbell, from Huntington, W. Va., carved a 68, two under the meet's amateur record, for a 136 total and first place in the 18-hole playoff.

Babe Zaharias slammed a 72 for the special women's pro championship with a 149 aggregate.

Carol Dirlinger of Tiffin, O., took the women's amateur "work-in-progress" championship with a closing 77 for 152.

Boudreau May Make Forecast Come True

By CARL LUNDQUIST
New York, Aug. 9 — (UP) — Lou Boudreau, the manager on a terrific spot by insisting his Indians would win the pennant, but it began to look as if he was wrong when he said his team would get off to a little more help from Lou Boudreau, the ball player.

Boudreau made no bones about it when he said Cleveland would finish in front because it was the best club in the American League. But right after he got through with his "propheteering" the Indians went sour and tumbled from first to fourth place, making him appear slightly foolish in print.

They bounced right back, however, and with seven victories in their last eight games, including three out of four from the World Champion Yankees, they were back on top today and threatening to stomp the four-team stampede for the lead.

Yesterday, with Boudreau returning to action as a pinch-hitter after being hobbled by injuries, the Indians defeated the Yankees, 8 to 6 and 2 to 1, for one of the most vital double triumphs of the season.

Boudreau's pinch-single delivered two runs in a five-run seventh of the opener, after which Eddie Robinson clinched the victory with a two-run homer. Robinson, who hit three homers in the double header, also put Steve Gromek out in front in the second game with his third round-tripper against Rookie Bob Porterfield, making his much-publicized major league debut. Porterfield, who lost a tough four-hitter when ex-Yankee Joe Gordon singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Jim Heggin's single. He went out with a fractured index finger, suffered when he stepped a liner by Hal Peck with his throwing hand.

The Athletics hung on closely in second place, just six percentage points behind Cleveland by defeating the Browns, 7 to 5 as Dick Fowler won his 11th game.

The White Sox defeated the Red Sox, 2 to 1, in 11 innings after Boston took the lead in the ninth, 6 to 1, behind Mel Parnell's steady pitching. Chicago's victory, attained by relief Pitcher Glen Moulder, put Boston three games out of the lead in fourth place.

The Tigers won two from the Senators at Detroit, 5 to 3 and 6 to 5. Hal Newhouser won his 15th game in the opener, scattering 11 hits and giving up earned runs, while in the second game Bill Pierce won his first game of the campaign. Pat Mullin hit a first game Tiger homer.

The Cardinals took over second place four games behind the leadership of the Braves when they defeated the Phillies, 4 to 1.

The Braves topped the Cubs at Boston, 6 to 3, Bill Voiselle scoring his 12th pitching victory as Alvin Dark, with a double and two singles, and Bob Elliott with a pair of doubles, paced the 10-hit winning stack.

Gil Hodges accounted for five runs with two homers and Jackie Robinson harvested three more with his round tripper as the Dodgers defeated the Reds, 10 to 2 at Brooklyn. Joe Hatten, winning his eighth game and his fourth against Cincinnati, gave up but six hits.

The Giants scored a 6 to 2 victory over the pirates as Larry Janzen won his 15th game of the year but Pittsburgh retained to take the second game, 5 to 4 with a two-run ninth inning rally touched off by Johnny Hopp's pinch double. Ed Stevens pinch-hit a Pirate homer and Sid Gordon got a first game Giant homer.

Otto Greiner of Baltimore was in third place with a 65-folled by George Bolesta of Florida, with 69.

Coaches Discuss Systems in Grid School

Fayetteville, Aug. 9 (AP) — Former Tennessee teammates who went different ways and chose different systems bared their football knowledge to some 175 high school and college coaches here today.

John Barnhill, grid boss at the University of Arkansas, explained the workings of his single wing formation at the opening session of the U. of A.'s annual coaching school. Herman Hickman, who built powerful lines at Army before coaching head coach at Yale, let the visiting members in on some of his "tricking" tricks.

Then Barnhill and Hickman got their pigskin baptism under Bob Neylan at Tennessee two decades ago.

Basketball also came in for attention today, with one of the nation's leading strategists, Hank Ha of Oklahoma A. and M., at the teacher's desk.

The coaching school will continue through Wednesday.

Memphis scored the winning run of the first game with Mobile in the final frame.

In the nighttime the Chicks scored their run on three singles in the second. Mobile's scores came as the result of a double steal in the fifth.
